RESOLUTION CHAPTER 83

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 68—Relative to the Italian American Legislator Project.

[Filed with Secretary of State September 6, 2011.]

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL’S DIGEST

ACR 68, Portantino. Italian American Heritage in California.

This measure would continue designation and observance of the month of October as Italian American Heritage Month. This measure would also encourage the Legislature to continue the Italian American Legislator Project and welcome the exhibit “The Italian American Legislator Project of 2011: A Legacy of Service to the California Legislature” to the State Capitol Building in October 2011 and encourage all Californians, through the K–12 curriculum and otherwise, to learn about the history, role, and contributions of Italian Americans to the State of California.

WHEREAS, People of Italian descent have participated in American politics and government since the beginning of United States history, and have served as Members of the California State Legislature almost since its first session held on December 15, 1849; and

WHEREAS, “The Italian American Legislator Project of 2011: A Legacy of Service to the California Legislature” (the Legacy Project) was recently launched to identify and compile a list of persons of Italian American heritage who have served as Members of the houses of the California Legislature. This project was initiated by the office of Assembly Member Anthony Portantino and the California Italian American Task Force with assistance from the California Research Bureau, the Office of the Chief Clerk, the Italian American Museum of Los Angeles, Lawrence DiStasi, former-Senate President pro Tempore David Roberti, other previously serving Italian American legislators, and the staff of various currently serving Italian American legislators; and

WHEREAS, The Legacy Project survey has already identified 51 Italian Americans who are former or current members of the California Senate and Assembly; this is the first time that a comprehensive list of Italian American legislators has been compiled; and

WHEREAS, Compiling the tentative Legacy Project list reveals a complex but highly successful journey of Italian Americans in the United States and California. A names-only search provided limited assistance for this project, making this project partly reliant on oral recollections, intergenerational confirmations, and documents not readily accessible to the public. Many names were altered deliberately or by error at Ellis Island or by government and school personnel. Some names were changed during times of open discrimination to gain employment, social acceptance, protect children, or avoid stereotyping, and other names were simply changed through marriage; and

WHEREAS, The following Italian American legislators have been identified by surveyors who believe that further searches are needed to find other persons not listed or that further confirmation is needed to positively affirm the heritage of those persons listed with an asterisk:
